Nature is for Everyone: Black and Brown Faces in America’s Wild Places

An evening with author, photographer, and outdoor advocate Dudley Edmondson

Join us for day of education and inclusiveness with author, photographer, and outdoor advocate Dudley Edmondson. Author of Nature is for Everyone: Black and Brown Faces in America’s Wild Places, Mr. Edmondson's public presentations promote unspoiled wild places and share his quest to make green spaces less white.

We will kick-start the day with a morning walk led by Mr. Edmondson at Prince William Forest Park. Regrouping later in the evening for a reception/social, with heavy appetizers and non-alcoholic beverages, and a book sale and signing provides opportunities to extend our conversation, encourage networking, and give people a chance to chat with each other and our main speaker, Mr. Edmondson.

Where: Northern Virginia Community College, Lakeside Theater, Woodbridge, VA 22191.

When: Saturday, March 21 2020

- 10:00am to noon – Hike through Prince William Forest Park, led by speaker Dudley Edmondson
- 6:00pm – Outdoor talk at Northern Virginia Community College, Woodbridge Campus
- 6:30pm – Reception with speaker and program partners
- 7:30pm – Talk by Dudley Edmondson
- 8:15pm – Community Conversation, Q&A
- 9:00pm – Book purchase and signing, conversation

Free of Charge, Registration Required. Space is limited. Register at https://GoOutside.eventbrite.com/

Sponsored by:

Prince William Conservation Alliance
Virginia Native Plant Society
Todos Supermarket
Unity in the Community
Coalition to Protect PWC

NAACP Prince William Chapter
National Park Service, Prince William Forest Park
Prince William County Parks, Recreation, Tourism
Wetland Studies & Solutions
Northern Virginia Community College